John Dryden was born in the village rectory of Aldwinckle, near Thrapston, in Northamptonshire.

John Dryden by James Maubert, 1695

John Dryden was born in the village of Aldwinckle in Northamptonshire, where his maternal grandfather was Rector of All Saints. His family was descended from Puritan landowning gentry that supported the Puritan cause and Parliament and interestingly he was also a second cousin of Jonathan Swift. As a boy Dryden lived in the nearby village of Titchmarsh, before being sent to Westminster School as a King's Scholar, under the tutelage of Dr Richard Busby. Dryden clearly respected the Headmaster and later sent two of his sons to school at Westminster. As a humanist public school Westminster maintained a curriculum which trained pupils in the art of rhetoric and the presentation of arguments for both sides of a given issue - a skill which would remain with Dryden and influence his later writing and thinking. The Westminster curriculum also included weekly translation assignments that developed Dryden's capacity for assimilation.

The young poet's years at Westminster were not uneventful and his first published poem, an elegy with a strong royalist feel on the death from smallpox of his school friend Henry, Lord Hastings, alludes to the execution of King Charles I, which took place on 30 January 1649, close to the school where Dr Busby had first prayed for the King and then locked in his schoolboys to prevent them attending the spectacle.

In 1650 Dryden joined Trinity College, Cambridge, where he experienced a return to the religious and political ethos of his childhood, as the Master of Trinity was a Puritan preacher, who had been rector in Dryden's home village. Though there is little specific information on Dryden's undergraduate years, he would most certainly have followed the standard curriculum of classical rhetoric and mathematics. In 1654 the poet obtained his degree, graduating with great distinction and in June of the same year Dryden's father died, leaving him land that generated a little income, though not enough to live on.

Returning to London during the Protectorate, Dryden obtained work from Cromwell's Secretary of State, John Thurloe. This appointment may have been the result of influence exercised on his behalf by his cousin the Lord Chamberlain, Sir Gilbert Pickering. At Cromwell's funeral on 23 November 1658, Dryden became acquainted with the Puritan poets John Milton and Andrew Marvell. Shortly after this time he published his first important poem, Heroique Stanzas (1658), a eulogy of Cromwell's death, serving as a cautious and prudent emotional display. In 1660 Dryden celebrated the Restoration of the monarchy and the return of Charles II with Astraea Redux, an authentic royalist panegyric. In this work the interregnum is illustrated as a time of anarchy and Charles is depicted as the restorer of peace and order.

After the Restoration, Dryden quickly established himself as the leading poet and literary critic of his day and he transferred his allegiances to the new government. Along with Astraea Redux, Dryden welcomed the new regime with two more panegyrics; To His Sacred Majesty: A Panegyric on his Coronation (1662), and To My Lord Chancellor (1662). These poems indicate that Dryden was looking to court a possible patron, though he was ultimately to make a living writing for publishers and the reading public, rather than for the aristocracy.

The charismatic Rev. Dr. Richard Busby (1606–1695), who was an Anglican priest serving as headmaster of Westminster School for more than fifty-five years.

Charles II, whose reign commenced in 1660 and was celebrated in Dryden's early work 'Astraea Redux', a royalist panegyric in which the poet welcomes the new regime. It is a vivid emotional display that overshadows the cautious 'Heroique Stanzas' that Dryden composed for Oliver Cromwell's death.

Upon the Death of the Lord Hastings

MUST Noble Hastings Immaturely die,
(The Honour of his ancient Family?)
Beauty and Learning thus together meet,
To bring a Winding for a Wedding-sheet?
Must Vertue prove Death's Harbinger? Must She, 5
With him expiring, feel Mortality?
Is Death (Sin's wages) Grace's now? shall Art
Make us more Learned, only to depart?
If Merit be Disease, if Vertue Death;
To be Good, Not to be, who'd then bequeath 10
Himself to Discipline? Who'd not esteem
Labour a Crime, Study self-murder deem?
Our Noble Youth now have pretence to be
Dunces securely, Ign'rant healthfully.
Rare Linguist! whose Worth speaks it self; whose Praise, 15
Though not his Own, all Tongues Besides do raise:
Then Whom Great Alexander may seem less,
Who conquer'd Men, but not their Languages.
In his Mouth Nations speak; his Tongue might be Interpreter to Greece, France, Italy. 20
His native Soyl was the four parts o' th' Earth;
All Europe was too narrow for his Birth.
A young Apostle; and (with rev'rence may
I speak 'it) inspir'd with gift of Tongues, as They.
Nature gave him, a Childe, what Men in vain 25
Oft strive, by Art though further'd, to obtain.
His body was an Orb, his sublime Soul
Did move on Vertue's and on Learning's pole:
Whose Reg'lar Motions better to our view,
Then Archimedes Sphere, the Heavens did shew. 30
Graces and Vertues, Languages and Arts,
Beauty and Learning, fill'd up all the parts.
Heav'ns Gifts, which do, like falling Stars, appear
Scatter'd in Others; all, as in their Sphear,
Were fix'd and conglobate in's Soul, and thence 35
Shone th'row his Body with sweet Influence;
Letting their Glories so on each Limb fall,
The whole Frame render'd was Celestial.
Come, learned Ptolomy, and tryal make,
If thou this Hero's Altitude canst take; 40
But that transcends thy skill; thrice happie all,
Could we but prove thus Astronomical.
Liv'd Tycho now, struck with this Ray, (which shone
More bright i' th' Morn then others Beam at Noon)

He'd take his Astrolabe, and seek out here 45
What new Star 't was did gild our Hemisphere.
Replenish'd then with such rare Gifts as these,
Where was room left for such a Foul Disease?
The Nations sin hath drawn that Veil which shrouds
Our Day-spring in so sad benighting Clouds. 50
Heaven would no longer trust its Pledge; but thus
Recall'd it; rapt its Ganymede from us.
Was there no milder way but the Small Pox,
The very filth'ness of Pandora's Box?
So many Spots, like næves, our Venus soil? 55
One Jewel set off with so many a Foil?
Blisters with pride swell'd, which th'row's flesh did sprout
Like Rose-buds, stuck i' th' Lilly-skin about.
Each little Pimple had a Tear in it,
To wail the fault its rising did commit: 60
Who, Rebel-like, with their own Lord at strife,
Thus made an Insurrection 'gainst his Life.
Or were these Gems sent to adorn his Skin,
The Cab'net of a richer Soul within?
No Comet need foretel his Change drew on, 65
Whose Corps might seem a Constellation.
O had he di'd of old, how great a strife
Had been, who from his Death should draw their Life?
Who should by one rich draught become whate'er
Seneca, Cato, Numa, Cæsar, were: 70
Learn'd, Vertuous, Pious, Great, and have by this
An Universal Metempsuchosis.
Must all these ag'd Sires in one Funeral
Expire? All die in one so young, so small?
Who, had he liv'd his life out, his great Fame 75
Had swoln 'bove any Greek or Romane name?
But hasty Winter, with one blast, hath brought
The hopes of Autumn, Summer, Spring, to nought.
Thus fades the Oak i' th' sprig, i' th' blade the Corn;
Thus, without Young, this Phœnix dies, new born. 80
Must then old three-legg'd gray-beards, with their Gout,
Catarrhs, Rheums, Aches, live three Ages out?
Times Offal, onely fit for th' Hospital,
Or t' hang an Antiquaries room withal;
Must Drunkards, Lechers, spent with Sinning, live 85
With such helps as Broths, Possits, Physick give?
None live but such as should die? Shall we meet
With none but Ghostly Fathers in the Street?
Grief makes me rail; Sorrow will force its way;
And Show'rs of Tears, Tempestuous Sighs best lay. 90

The Tongue may fail; but over-flowing Eyes
Will weep out lasting streams of Elegies.

But thou, O Virgin-widow, left alone,
Now thy Beloved, Heaven-ravisht Spouse is gone,
(Whose skilful Sire in vain strove to apply ⁹⁵
Med'cines, when thy Balm was no remedy)
With greater than Platonick love, O wed
His Soul, tho' not his Body, to thy Bed:
Let that make thee a Mother; bring thou forth
Th' Ideas of his Vertue, Knowledge, Worth; ¹⁰⁰
Transcribe th' Original in new Copies: give
Hastings o' th' better part: so shall he live
In's Nobler Half; and the great Grandsire be
Of an Heroick Divine Progenie:
An Issue which t' Eternity shall last, ¹⁰⁵
Yet but th' Irradiations which he cast.
Erect no Mausolæums: for his best
Monument is his Spouses Marble brest.

Heroick Stanza's: A Poem upon the Death of His Late Highness, Oliver, Lord Protector of England, Scotland, and Ireland in Heroick Stanza's

Heroick Stanza's, Consecrated to the Memory of His Highness,

OLIVER, Late Lord Protector of This Commonwealth, &c.

Written after the Celebrating of His Funeral.

1

AND now 'tis time; for their officious haste,
Who would before have born him to the Sky,
Like eager Romans e'er all Rites were past,
Did let too soon the sacred Eagle fly.

2

Though our best Notes are Treason to his Fame, 5
Join'd with the loud Applause of publick Voice,
Since Heaven, what Praise we offer to his Name,
Hath render'd too Authentick by its Choice.

3

Though in his Praise no Arts can liberal be,
Since they, whose Muses have the highest flown, 10
Add not to his Immortal Memory;
But do an Act of Friendship to their own.

4

Yet 'tis our Duty and our Interest too,
Such Monuments as we can build, to raise;
Lest all the World prevent what we shou'd do, 15
And claim a Title in him by their Praise.

5

How shall I then begin, or where conclude,
To draw a Fame so truly Circular?
For in a Round, what Order can be shew'd,
Where all the Parts so equal perfect are? 20

6

His Grandeur he derived from Heav'n alone,
For he was great, e'er Fortune made him so;

And Wars, like Mists that rise against the Sun,
Made him but greater seem, not greater grow.

7

No borrow'd Bays his Temples did adorn, ²⁵
But to our Crown he did fresh Jewels bring;
Nor was his Vertue poison'd, soon as born,
With the too early Thoughts of being King.

8

Fortune (that easie Mistress of the Young,
But to her ancient Servants coy and hard) ³⁰
Him, at that Age, her Favourites ranked among,
When she her best-lov'd Pompey did discard.

9

He, private, marked the Faults of others Sway,
And set as Sea-marks for himself to shun;
Not like rash Monarchs, who their Youth betray ³⁵
By Acts their Age too late wou'd wish undone.

10

And yet Dominion was not his Design;
We owe that Blessing not to him, but Heav'n,
Which to fair Acts unsought Rewards did join,
Rewards that less to him, than us, were giv'n. ⁴⁰

11

Our former Chiefs, like Sticklers of the War,
First sought t' inflame the Parties, then to poise:
The Quarrel lov'd, but did the Cause abhor,
And did not strike to hurt, but make a noise.

12

War, our Consumption, was their gainful Trade; ⁴⁵
We inward bled, whilst they prolong'd our Pain;
He fought to end our Fighting, and assay'd
To stench the Blood by breathing of the Vein.

13

Swift and resistless through the Land he pass'd,
Like that bold Greek, who did the East subdue; ⁵⁰

And made to Battels such Heroick Haste,
As if on Wings of Victory he flew.

14

He fought, secure of Fortune, as of fame;
Till by new Maps, the Island might be shown,
Of Conquests, which he strew'd where-e'er he came, ⁵⁵
Thick as the Galaxy with Stars is sown.

15

His palms, tho under Weights they did not stand,
Still thriv'd; no Winter could his Laurels fade:
Heaven in his Portraict shew'd a Work-man's Hand
And drew it perfect, yet without a Shade. ⁶⁰

16

Peace was the Prize of all his Toil and Care,
Which War had banish'd and did now restore:
Bologna's walls thus mounted in the Air,
To seat themselves more surely than before.

17

Her Safety, rescued Ireland, to him owes; ⁶⁵
And treacherous Scotland, to no Int'rest true,
Yet bless'd that Fate which did his Arms dispose,
Her Land to civilize, as to subdue.

18

Nor was he like those Stars which only shine,
When to pale Mariners they Storms portend: ⁷⁰
He had his calmer Influence, and his Mien
Did Love and Majesty together blend.

19

'Tis true, his Count'nance did imprint an Awe,
And naturally all Souls to his did bow;
As Wands of Divination downward draw, ⁷⁵
And point to Beds where Sov'raign Gold doth grow.

20

When, past all Off'rings to Pheretrian Jove,

He Mars depos'd and Arms to Gowns made yield,
Successful Counsels did him soon approve
As fit for close Intrigues as open Field. 80

21

To suppliant Holland he vouchsaf'd a Peace,
Our once bold Rival in the British Main,
Now tamely glad her unjust Claim to cease,
And buy our Friendship with her Idol, Gain.

Fame of th' asserted Sea, through Europe blown, 85
Made France and Spain ambitious of his Love;
Each knew that Side must conquer, he wou'd own;
And for him fiercely, as for Empire, strove.

23

No sooner was the French-Man's Cause embrac'd,
Than the light Monsieur the grave Don out-weigh'd: 90
His Fortune turn'd the Scale where-e'er 'twas cast,
Tho' Indian mines were in the other laid.

24

When absent, yet we conquer'd in his Right;
For tho' some meaner Artist's Skill were shown,
In mingling Colours, or in placing Light, 95
Yet still the fair Designment was his own.

25

For from all Tempers he cou'd Service draw
The worth of each, with its Alloy, he knew;
And, as the Confident of Nature, saw
How she Complexions did divide and brew. 100

26

Or he their single Vertues did survey,
By Intuition, in his own large Breast,
Where all the rich Idea's of them lay,
That were the Rule and Measure to the rest.

27

When such Heroick Vertue Heaven sets out, ¹⁰⁵

~~The Stars, like Commons, sullenly obey;~~

Because it drains them, when it comes about;

And therefore is a Tax they seldom pay.

28

From this high Spring, our Foreign Conquests flow,

Which yet more glorious Triumphs do portend; ¹¹⁰

Since their Commencement to his Arms they owe,

If Springs as high as Fountains may ascend.

29

He made us Free-men of the Continent,

Whom Nature did like Captives treat before;

To nobler Preys the English Lion sent, ¹¹⁵

And taught him first in Belgian Walks to roar.

30

That old unquestion'd Pirate of the Land,

Proud Rome, with Dread the Fate of Dunkirk heard;

And trembling, wish'd behind more Alps to stand,

Although an Alexander were her Guard. ¹²⁰

31

By his Command we boldly cross'd the Line

And bravely fought where Southern Stars arise;

We trac'd the far-fetched Gold unto the Mine,

And that which brib'd our Fathers, made our Prize.

32

Such was our Prince, yet own'd a Soul above ¹²⁵

The highest Acts it could produce to show:

Thus poor Mechanick Arts in Publick move,

Whilst the deep Secrets beyond Practice go.

33

Nor dy'd he when his Ebbing Fame went less,

But when fresh Laurels courted him to live: ¹³⁰

He seem'd but to prevent some new Success,

As if above what Triumphs Earth could give.

34

His latest Victories still thickest came,
As near the Centre, Motion does increase;
Till he, press'd down by his own weighty Name, ¹³⁵
Did, like the Vestal, under Spoils decease.

35

But first, the Ocean, as a tribute, sent
That Giant-Prince of all her Watry Herd;
And th' Isle, when her protecting Genius went,
Upon his Obsequies loud Sighs conferr'd. ¹⁴⁰

36

No Civil Broils have since his Death arose,
But Faction now, by Habit, does obey;
And Wars have that Respect for his Repose,
As winds for Halcyons when they breed at Sea.

37

His Ashes in a Peaceful Urn shall rest, ¹⁴⁵
His Name a great Example stands to show,
How strangely high Endeavours may be bless'd,
Where Piety and Valour jointly go.

A Poem on the Happy Restoration and Return of His Sacred Majesty Charles the Second

NOW with a general Peace the World was blest,
While Ours, a World divided from the rest,
A dreadful Quiet felt, and worsen far
Than Armes, a sullen Interval of War:
Thus, when black Clouds draw down the lab'ring Skies, 5
Ere yet abroad the winged Thunder flies,
An horrid Stillness first invades the ear,
And in that silence We the Tempest fear.
Th' ambitious Swede like restless Billows tost
On this hand gaining what on that he lost, 10
Though in his life he Blood and Ruine breath'd,
To his now guideless Kingdom Peace bequeath'd;
And Heaven, that seem'd regardless of our Fate,
For France and Spain did Miracles create,
Such mortal Quarrels to compose in Peace 15
As Nature bred and Int'rest did encrease.
We sigh'd to hear the fair Iberian Bride
Must grow a Lilie to the Lilies side,
While Our cross Stars deny'd us Charles his bed
Whom Our first Flames and Virgin Love did wed. 20
For his long absence Church and State did groan;
Madness the Pulpit, Faction seiz'd the Throne:
Experienc'd Age in deep despair was lost
To see the Rebel thrive, the Loyal crost:
Youth that with Joys had unacquainted been 25
Envy'd gray hairs that once good Days had seen:
We thought our Sires, not with their own content,
Had ere we came to age our Portion spent.
Nor could our Nobles hope their bold Attempt
Who ruined Crowns would Coronets exempt: 30
For when by their designing Leaders taught
To strike at Pow'r which for themselves they sought,
The vulgar gull'd into Rebellion, arm'd,
Their blood to action by the Prize was warm'd;
The Sacred Purple then and Scarlet Gown, 35
Like sanguine Dye, to Elephants was shewn.
Thus when the bold Typhocus scal'd the Sky
And forc'd great Jove from his own Heaven to fly,
(What King, what Crown from Treasons reach is free,
If Jove and Heaven can violated be?), 40
The lesser Gods that shar'd his prosp'rous State
All suffer'd in the Exil'd Thunderer's Fate.
The Rabble now such Freedom did enjoy,

As Winds at Sea, that use it to destroy:
Blind as the Cyclops, and as wild as he, ⁴⁵
They own'd a lawless savage Libertie,
Like that our painted Ancestors so priz'd
Ere Empire's Arts their Breasts had Civiliz'd.
How Great were then Our Charles his woes, who thus
Was forc'd to suffer for Himself and us! ⁵⁰
He toss'd by fate, and hurried up and down,
Heir to his Fathers Sorrows, with his Crown,
Could taste no sweets of Youths desired Age,
But found his Life too true a Pilgrimage.
Unconquer'd yet in that forlorn Estate, ⁵⁵
His Manly Courage overcame his Fate.
His Wounds he took like Romans on his Breast,
Which by his Vertue were with Laurels drest.
As Souls reach Heav'n, while yet in Bodies pent,
So did he live above his Banishment. ⁶⁰
That Sun, which we beheld with couz'ned eyes
Within the Water, mov'd along the Skies.
How easie 'tis when Destiny proves kind,
With full spread Sails to run before the Wind,
But those that 'gainst stiff Gales laveering go ⁶⁵
Must be at once resolv'd and skilful too.
He would not like soft Otho hope prevent,
But stay'd and suffer'd Fortune to repent.
These Virtues Galba in a Stranger sought;
And Piso to Adopted Empire brought. ⁷⁰
How shall I then my doubtful Thoughts express
That must his Suff'rings both regret and bless!
For when his early Valour Heav'n had crost,
And all at Worc'ster but the honour lost,
Forc'd into exile from his rightful Throne, ⁷⁵
He made all Countries where he came his own,
And viewing Monarchs secret Arts of sway
A Royal Factor for their Kingdoms lay.
Thus banish'd David spent abroad his time,
When to be Gods Anointed was his Crime, ⁸⁰
And when restor'd, made his proud Neighbours rue
Those choise Remarks he from his Travels drew:
Nor is he only by Afflictions shown
To conquer others Realms, but rule his own:
Recov'ring hardly what he lost before, ⁸⁵
His Right indears it much, his Purchase more.
Inur'd to suffer ere he came to raign,
No rash procedure will his Actions stain.
To bus'ness ripened by digestive thought,
